

“Because of Nextech, my practice has more time and energy to focus on growing patient volume and providing exemplary patient care.”

When Dr. Kerry Solomon’s EHR proved unstable with no reliable support and a lack of innovation, Dr. Solomon started seeking a better solution for his bustling practice, saying:

“It was critical for us to find a comprehensive enterprise EHR solution that could be used across all sub-specialties and practices.”

After evaluating multiple EHR systems, Dr. Solomon’s practice landed on Nextech because of its integration capabilities and seamless implementation. While it often takes practices a few weeks to get up to speed during the implementation phase with their new EHR, the transition to Nextech was easy for Dr. Solomon’s practice.

“The same day we went live with Nextech, we were able to maintain our same patient load — never seeing a lapse in patient volume and never having to sacrifice patient care.”

Upon implementing Nextech’s EHR, Dr. Solomon’s practice improved clinical workflows and could easily transfer clinical data in a discrete format from their former EHR into Nextech’s. Additionally, Dr. Solomon’s office has reaped the benefits of switching to Nextech with its easy-to-use one-page charting, robust referral capabilities, and simplified image comparison. “Because of Nextech, my practice has more time and energy to focus on growing patient volume and providing exemplary patient care,” shared Dr. Solomon.

No longer having to worry about long outages with an undependable EHR, Dr. Solomon’s practice is thriving. “Not only is Nextech saving us time, but its simplified integration with Veracity has allowed our doctors to swiftly make well-informed decisions. This is why Nextech is the gold standard solution in eye care,” said Dr. Solomon.

Dr. Kerry Solomon, MD